The ladies of St. Agnes Guild of All Saints' church will furnish refreshments during the Edmonton exhibition in the building next door north of the fire hall.

Miss McFadden, the victim of the shooting accident some days ago, still continues to improve rapidly. The doctor thinks she will be able to sit up in a day or two.

W. J. HENDER, of this office, has purchased the dwelling lately owned and occupied by James Lauder, jr., and intends moving into it as soon as he can make some improvements which are necessary.

CAPT. A. DAVIDSON, of the Salvation army, farewelled on Sunday evening, but she has not yet received her marching orders. She expects to receive word to-night as to where she is to go and when she is to leave for her new charge.

INSPECTOR FENNELL informs us that the lease of the premises at present occupied by the N. W. M. P., as a barracks has been renewed and the force will be continued here until further orders. The owner of the property has agreed to furnish more stable accommodation as the stable now used is not large enough for their purposes.

The ladies of the South Edmonton Epworth League held a very successful Pink social in their church on Friday evening last although the evening was an unfavorable one which somewhat interfered with the length and quality of the programme, yet a goodly number assembled and enjoyed a very pleasant evening. The financial result also was very satisfactory for after paying the usual prices for advertising, tickets and complimentary which perhaps serves only as a "rack of offense," yet the net proceeds amounted to $20 which will be donated to church work.

A. BRACHAMP, clerk for Lariviere, came in from their trading post on Lesser Slave lake on Thursday, leaving the post on the 25th and arriving here on the 29th inst., making the trip in seven days. They got their supplies to their destination in good order, and then he returned for another load which he will take back with him, starting on his return trip to-day. He reports the prospect for a good trading season very encouraging. He says that the crops in the Peace River country have been a failure this year on account of dry weather but at Lesser Slave lake they are better than usual. Mr. Lariviere will have about 2000 bushels of potatoes, and they have put up about 300 tons of hay for the winter's supply. Just as Brachamp was leaving the post Mr. Brack arrived with his supplies for Peace River and intended starting again for his post on the 23rd inst. Bishop Thorguine accompanied him in from the mission at Lesser Slave lake. Sister Thorguine and another sister are returning with him to-day. Bishop Grosnard remains here for a few days and then he intends to go back to remain for the winter, and Father Antoine does not intend to return this fall.

The auction sale of property of A. C. Brabant, including coal mine, town lots, two residences, barns and other buildings, etc., has been postponed till Monday, Oct. 7th, at 2 p. m. in Robertson's hall.

Just as we are going to press a three handed street fight is in progress at Ross' corner. Is it not high time an example was made of parties engaging in such acts, especially in the business portion of the town? If people must fight, they should at least go away where they would not be seen by the public.

R. S. McDONALD, who was arrested at Battleford about two months ago on the complaint of Ross & Moret, of Fort Saskatchewan, and who was discharged at the preliminary trial, entered an action against Ross & Moret for false imprisonment, claiming damages of $2,500. On Friday last the parties got together and made an amicable settlement, McDONALD withdrawing the action and settling Ross & Moret's claim against him.

Yesterday afternoon a horse belonging to W. J. Graham, coal dealer, fell into a pit about 14 feet deep near the coal mine and it caused considerable trouble to extricate him. Some seven or eight men had to work for over an hour filling in the pit and enlarging it so that he could be pulled out, after which he was hauled to the level ground. Either in the fall or in the act of hauling him out he received a severe gash under the fore leg and he was otherwise badly shaken up.

INSPT. SNYDER leaves by to-morrow morning's train for Red Deer, taking with him the prisoners Brewster and Bowers, who were arrested at Green Lake north of Battleford some days ago on a charge of horse theft. Brewster's brother was committed for trial at a preliminary examination for the same offence, held at Red Deer a few weeks ago by Inspector Snyder. Brewster is also wanted at Calgary on another charge of horse theft.

S. R. BENOIT, who came here as manager of La Banque Jacques Cartier when that bank started a branch here a year ago, tendered his resignation to the management about two weeks ago asking them to accept it by wire. On Saturday evening a wire was received accepting his resignation and putting the bank business in charge of J. E. Laurencelle, who has been cashier here for some months. Mr. Benoit intends to remain in Edmonton, and devote his whole attention to the management of the big gold dredge, in which he is largely interested. In fact it was on account of the necessity of his giving more attention to that work that caused him to resign his position with the bank.

LAST Wednesday evening a concert was held in Parrish's hall, South Edmonton. North Sydney, Sept. 19.—The captain and crew of the steamer Lady Aberdeen, lost at Newfoundland a week ago, arrived to-day. The captain says his vessel met a heavy gale and also struck a sunken wreck or wreckage, 140 miles southwest of Cape Race. A leak was found in his vessel and when they reached Nance Cove, Newfoundland, there was six feet of water in the hold. The captain went to get the wreck commissioner to save as much cargo as possible. On his return with that official during the night they found several hundred fishermen stripping the vessel. In spite of all protest they pillaged the schooner of everything in the rigging and contents of the prevent cabin. The crew were powerless to prevent it and left the vessel. By morning everything movable was gone. The deck fixtures were also removed and the cargo taken ashore in a damaged condition. It is owned by a St. John firm. The vessel is owned by Murdoch McLeod, of Halifax, partly insured.—Nor'-Wester.

JEALOUS OF THE NOTRWEST.

One natural effect of the big crops this year would be to attract settlers from the older provinces and from the emigrating classes of European countries to the Northwest. It looks as if it was in anticipation of this, that the Montreal Herald makes a strong appeal for local effort to keep the people of its own province at home. "The growth of the Northwest," it says, "has been at the expense of the older provinces.
The young farmers of Ontario and Quebec, influenced by the glowing reports, have visited Manitoba and the Territories, and seeing their advantages came in and settled. This was good for the Northwest but bad for the older provinces. Besides draining from them the young and vigorous of the population, there was a loss of capital in money and money's worth which they carried away with them. The effect has been to decrease the value of all staple farm products. The formerly thrifty and independent farmer of Canada is a poorer man than he was twenty years ago, and the farmer who is not poor is less rich than he otherwise would have been."

We have, no doubt, drawn freely from the older provinces, but it is a great mistake to suppose that from those have come all the settlers who are making comfortable homes in the Northwest, and a large proportion of our population is made up of European emigrants who came directly to the Northwest and of those who emigrated some years ago to the Western States and who have found out that there are far greater possibilities for them here.

The immigration to the Northwest has probably in some cases had its local influence, but that it has checked the progress, or retarded the prosperity of the older provinces to the extent indicated by our contemporary, is a supposition that it can find no evidence but its own fears to support. It is a matter of sincere rejoicing that the Northwest is making such gigantic strides and it is doing this we believe, without injury to the older portions of the Dominion.
It is no doubt true, as the Herald says, that there remains large tracts of undeveloped country in the older provinces, great inducements to young men who are seeking for new fields of labor.
Those opportunities are by no means exhausted, and it is but natural that the authorities should do all they possibly can to bring their advantages to the attention of their own people. We in the Northwest therefore shall not experience any disappointment, should the governments at Quebec or Toronto act on the Herald's advice. We are, it is to be hoped, sufficiently patriotic to rejoice at any enterprises that increase the prosperity of any portion of the Dominion. It is fairly within our right, however, to expect that such prominent organs as the Montreal Herald should conceal their jealousy of the Northwest, should they be unfortunate enough to be afflicted with it. It is our good fortune and happiness that we have fallen into a goodly heritage and that our lines are cast in pleasant places. Our land may not be literally flowing with milk and honey, but it is so rich and fertile that it is most bountiful in its returns. We shall rejoice to see those waste places of Ontario and Quebec turned into regions of thriving industry. But the vastly superior advantages of the Northwest will have their influence, let the Heralds of the east say what they will;
and it is a mistaken policy to persuade a Canadian citizens to stay in the older provinces if he can better himself in the Northwest.

NORTHWEST ASSEMBLY.

REGINA, Sept. 20th, '95.

Just before the house rose last night the following message was received

Mr. Haultain said the relief expenditure required the fullest explanation.
The origin of that expenditure was threatened, if not an actual, condition of destitution in certain portions of the Territories. Numerous signed petitions were sent from this part of the country to the governor-general in council asking that the federal government take action to meet it, especially asking that relief be given in the nature of a distribution of work of a practical and permanent character. What was threatened turned out to be actual fact. The executive committee of the Territories had the matter brought before them by a number of delegations, who also asked action should be taken. The first formal action was taken by the legislative assembly itself, by the appointment of a special committee of enquiry.
That committee reported that the situation was sufficiently serious to warrant them in recommending the house to appoint a deputation to immediately wait on the minister of the interior and explain the situation to him and obtain a definite statement as to the Dominion government. Mr. Daly was accordingly interviewed and he agreed to urge upon his government the necessity of meeting the situation and advised that the matter should be dealt with by the executive of the Northwest. The committee's report was accepted. The assembly recognized the necessity of taking immediate steps, and that they should be taken by the federal government, but that it was desirable for them to be taken through the local authorities.

As they had not sufficient money to deal with the distress certain correspondence ensued with the minister of the interior and resting upon his assurance the executive proceeded to take action. The money that had been expended in relief would be refunded, and he had the word of the minister of the interior that special provision for it would be made at the next session of parliament.

Mr. Oliver, while admitting of the existence of the distress, denied that the house by its silence at the last session gave permission for the action of the executive government. While disclaiming any desire to call in question the reliability of the hon. gentleman who had last spoken, he held that the money had been expended in an unconstitutional way, by reason of the assembly not having previously sanctioned the expenditure.

Mr. Brett objected to the action of the executive on the ground that it was not warranted by the representations made to them by the minister of the interior.

REGINA, Sept. 21st, '94.

Petitions were presented on matters relating to the school ordinance, prairie chicken shooting and the liquor ordinance.

On motion of Mr. Neff, it was agreed that the papers in connection with the issue of liquor licenses laid on the table be referred to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Brown, Ross, Neff, the mover and seconder, with instructions to examine and report thereon.

Mr. Haultain, in moving that the house go into committee of supply, said the propositions of the executive contained nothing startling. They were to a certain extent composed year by year with precisely the same conditions. As they were practically ground down by the federal government by an amount of money insufficient for their bare necessities, there is not much scope for grand policies.
Their revenue was derived from local and federal sources. The estimated receipts from local sources this year were $30,000. The amount offered by the federal government at the last session was $242,879, which was reduced by $37,500 allowed for the months of July and August, owing to the fiscal years of the Dominion and the Territories overlapping. During last year the federal vote was $241,034. He contended however that the Territories had a good claim for much more money from the federal government. The amount of money available this year was $25,000 less than they ought to have expected owing to the fact that that sum was lost to them by the action of the auditor-general at Ottawa which that gentleman claimed had elapsed, but which the executive committee denied. The matter is now, however in the hands of the department of justice, to whom the executive had appealed. The amount available this year for roads and bridges the gulf into which all their balances, after everything else was met, went, was less by $1,500.
Owing to the relief expenditure of last fall it was proposed to make a re-adjustment of amounts for the various districts. Although a policy of reducing expenses have been pursued, the house must be prepared, if not this year, very soon to expect an increased expenditure owing to the enormous increase in office work, especially in the education department. To help meet this a slight re-adjustment of salaries was proposed.
It had been found that members had been to lax in guarding the spending of money in several districts. It was proposed to lay down stringent rules in this respect, so that in future no money could be paid out except for work properly authorized to be done.

Mr. Brett moved as an amendment, that the house do not go into committee until a certain committee appointed to examine certain papers had had time to report. Mr. Clink-skill seconded the amendment, and was followed by Mr. Oliver, who adversely criticised the estimates as brought down.

Dr. Brett in continuing the debate after recess on Friday evening, on the relief matter, said he must protest against and strongly condemn the principle under which the relief expenditure had been made, viz., with out authority given by the house. The executive had been eager to accept a promise of money from the federal government, only a political promise too, a most unbusiness-like proceeding.
Mr. Haultain attempted to make out that $27,000 of this year's vote from the Dominion was on account of the relief, but no direct evidence existed that such was the case. By the statement of the leader, it would appear that the Territories were going to profit about $18,000 by the transaction. He could not see it, but

If that was the case, then continue some such plan indefinitely!

Mr. Mowat, of South Regina, characterized the proceedings as wholly unbusiness-like. Mr. Haultain made no effort when he should have done so, to secure the money from the government, or the money would have been now in hand. Mr. Mowat, however, saying that Mr. Haultain used the relief fund for election purposes, but said Mr. Haultain kept personal control in two districts where the members were his opponents, while relinquishing control in those two districts, where the members were friends. Far more money was spent on relief than the occasion warranted. He (Mr. Mowat) did not believe the work in South Regina was ever inspected, although it was paid for. No one knew whether it was actually done. The house could draw its own inference from these facts as to whether the fund was used politically.

Mr. Ross, as a member of the delegation which interviewed Mr. Daly, recounted the circumstances of the interview. At first Daly seemed inclined to do nothing, but after being told that money must be spent and if the assembly had to do it the money probably would be taken from the school grants, and the people would realize clearly who were shirking responsibility, the minister agreed and plainly promised to furnish the funds. No specific sum was agreed on, as no one then knew what sum might be required. They talked over the best plan of meeting the case, and Daly strongly favored the plan that had been followed. The minister said he would not allow the Northwest representatives to touch the fund, as they would use it politically. The promise made by the minister was most distinct, and with no reservation whatever. He (Mr. Ross) believed the promise would eventually be carried out, although it had not been carried out as it should have been. The money should have been all paid back by the government. However they had Mr. Daly's word that $27,000 of this year's vote was on that account. Who can guarantee that this is the case? All would admit that they should have that much increase and more on the general vote, but the minister said they could not get it and they were bound to take his word that $27,000 of the vote was on account of relief.

As a member for one of the affected districts, Mr. Ross said the work at Moose Jaw was done as satisfactorily as such work could be done. Although Haultain relegated control to others in that district, he (Mr. Ross) had nothing to do with it. A committee of five was selected. At Haultain's personal request he nominated for the committee two opponents of his own—two men who never had and probably never would vote for himself. Other two were supporters of his—sterling men, both of them. The fifth was a man who had never cast a vote in the district. What could be fairer?

As a member of the executive committee, whose action was criticized, Mr. Ross contended Mr. Oliver's contention that the house did not give tacit endorsement to the course followed. Haultain last year specifically stated that if the Dominion did not come to the relief of settlers, the executive would have to do all in its power and trust to the next house to endorse the course. The executive followed the course thus indicated, not because the federal government failed, but because the federal government decided to do the work through the executive. Mr. Ross considered Mr. Oliver put up the only argument advanced on his side of the debate. Brett and Mowat simply echoed Oliver's sentiment. For once he was glad to see those members ally themselves with some opinion that had a show of reason to justify it. But by so doing they put themselves in a queer position. Oliver was consistent in his argument and was standing on a principle he had ever advocated, but Brett and Mowat had always heretofore opposed Oliver and the majority of the house in that principle. He congratulated them upon conversion. Mr. Ross took the ground that the executive would have been censurable had they not made the expenditure, as had it not been made there would certainly have been suffering by destitution. Then the only question was, had it been made rightly? No good evidence had been given to the contrary.

Monks, Brown, Eakin, Boucher and Magrath spoke in favor of Mr. Haultain's action, and congratulated him upon his course and his speech. Mr. Brown emphatically approved the intention that the relief fund was used politically in North Regina. Magrath was glad Haultain had the courage to slate the Northwest members at Ottawa for neglect of duty as regards the interest of the Territories.

Mr. Haultain closed the debate. In the legislative assembly on Saturday evening Mr. Oliver continued his criticism of the estimates, and averred he could not follow Mr. Haultain in his agile mathematical feats. Mr. Haultain argued that the Northwest had not lost by the relief expenditure, yet he (Mr. Oliver) noticed the roads and bridges vote was reduced from last year. He did not look on this vote as so lightly important as Mr. Haultain seemed to view it. He (Oliver) said that if that vote was not kept increasing instead of reducing, serious would be the result, at least in Northern Alberta, where settlement was fast increasing. Schools, too had largely increased, and there was to be no commensurate increase in the vote for that purpose. He (Oliver) thought the executive, after their experience with Daly already gained, showed most wonderful and powerful faith in his promises. He suggested that the executive had their faith in the C. P. R. Crow's Nest Pass railway, as it appeared illtimely, and of the quality calculated to remove mountains.

Mr. Ross in answer to Oliver's charge that the funds were short, said if Oliver chose persistently to believe that a sum of $27,000 was not given this year from Ottawa on account of relief, Oliver was right. But he (Ross) could not disbelieve Daly's written assurance of that fact. He could see no extraordinary exercise of faith in that.

Magrath, Reid, Meyers, Brown, Bullock, Eakin and Sutherland, spoke in opposition to Brett's amendment.

Ininger and Oliver had a lively set-to. Ininger answering Oliver's contention that the House last year was not duly informed and in fact prologued without knowing that the executive would go on with relief works quoted a speech of Oliver's made last session wherein Oliver's said if the Dominion did not step in to relieve distress, the same would be a charge to the assembly.

Oliver replied that the report did not give the sense of his speech. That taken in full, his speech was quite consistent with his present stand, that as the contingency then existed, a sum for relief should have been placed in last year's estimates.

At the close of the debate Brett withdrew his amendment.

Second readings were passed to amend the annual ordinance bill respecting deputy clerks and deputy sheriffs, and a bill to regulate a by-law of Moose Jaw public school district.

On Haultain moving that they go into committee of supply, Oliver launched out into the matter which arose between Ininger and himself on Saturday and then branched off into the general policy of the executive as shown in their action of the relief expenditure. He repeated his arguments of previous days and declared that the policy of the executive was altogether unconstitutional. He adversely criticized a few of the statistics as presented by them and declared that the manner the question was brought before the house last session presented the alternative of submission or starvation. Had the executive approached the Dominion government in a proper way they would have got the required assistance, there would have been no further trouble, and constitutional procedure would not have been violated. Instead of being the responsible experts of the assembly, the executive was merely the dependents of the federal government.

Mr. Ininger replied on the personal question that he had no intention of misrepresenting Oliver, nor of putting him in an unfair position, and he denied that he had done so.

The discussion then branched off on similar lines to the debates on Friday and Saturday, very little new material being introduced. It was taken part in by Messrs. Brett, Ross, Clinksill and Haultain. At the close the House went into supply and agreed to the first item of $240 for the Queen's printer.

It now being 5.30 the House adjourned until evening.

That interest in Canada is taken in England is shown by the action of the London Times in establishing a Canada news bureau. The English newspapers have long since found out that they must give their readers news of this country. Too often such information was from and colored by United States sources. It is well that the Times has decided to get Canadian news from Canadian correspondents.—Toronto Telegram.

The October number of the Delineator contains a choice and varied selection of timely articles. It gives an authoritative exposition of styles, illustrating a variety of novel, artistic and beautiful garments. Especially complete and valuable is its discussion of mourning. Mrs. Roger A. Propper's paper on etiquette of grief's outward showing being supplemented by instructive article giving patterns and designs for mourning attire. Every mother with the responsibility of a household should study what is said about getting out a family, the season's costume needs of herself and her little ones being fully treated. The progress of co-education in Great Britain is further explained by Amy Rayson. Bookbinding as an occupation for women is entertainingly described by Evelyn Hunter Nordhoff. Lucia M. Robbins describes a new and amusing form of entertainment. The re-opening of the schools is remembered in an account of things suitable for the children's luncheon basket, while A. B. Longstreet contributes a practical exposition of how to care. The return of cooler weather makes timely the admirably illustrated article on draperies. The papers on the kindergarten by Sara Miller Kirby, on floral work for October by A. M. Stuart and the designs for burnt work by Harriet Keito Forbes fully sustain the interest felt in these topics. Around the table has its usual admirable variety, and the newest books are sympathetically reviewed. ## SACRED CONCERT.

A large and appreciative audience greeted the Presbyterian church choir at their sacred concert held in the church on Friday evening last. The members of the choir had been for some time practicing Farmer's Oration "Christ and his Soldiers" and it was well rendered at their entertainment that evening. A. G. Randall, the leader of the choir, deserves a great deal of credit for the able manner in which he instructed the choir and conducted the entertainment. The soloists rendered their parts with credit to themselves and in fact all the parts were well taken. The attendance was good and financially it was a success, the receipts being about $50. The following is the programme:

AGRICOLA.

Threshing is in full swing here now and crops are turning out very fairly, what is generally a good crop although where late sown it is injured more or less by frost, it will however average about 30 bushels to the acre.

Walker's threshing outfit is giving great satisfaction and is doing excellent work. They will in all probability be kept busy in the Agriculture settlement for some time as there is a large area of crop to thresh.

A large quantity of wheat will shortly be moving toward the mill at South Edmonton from this settlement.

METEOROLOGICAL.

The Globe's Ottawa special of Sept. 21st says: "Surprise is expressed that after a long vacation the ministers do not seem to have anything to bring them all together in council and some go so far as to say they are so much at sixes and sevens that they cannot agree upon anything. One faction opposes everything brought forward by another faction. The want of unity and good fellowship was sharply defined during the absence of the premier in the Northwest. Carson, as senior privy councillor and acting premier, issued numerous calls for cabinet meetings, but his colleagues within reach ignored the most urgent summons with undignified contempt. It caused great inconvenience and annoyance to the acting premier, who is said to have threatened to complain to the first minister. This had no terrors for the men who care nothing for howell and who openly slighted him during the session by bringing in legislation he knew nothing about, such as the Hudson Bay railway bill."

Wellington Boulter, the pioneer fruit owner of Canada, who has factories at Picton, Toronto and Demarestville, is at the Leland, returning from a trip to the Pacific coast. Mr. Boulter will send a complete train of 21 cars to British Columbia on his return home, having secured orders for that number.—Winnipeg Free Press.

BIRTH.

Mrs. At Stony Plain on Sunday, Sept. 22nd, 1890, the wife of L. W. Menzel of a son.

EDMONTON RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The rifle association meeting, which took place last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was one of the most successful meetings for a number of years. The weather was all that could be desired, and, although the number of contestants was not so large as on some previous occasions, the shooting was better than usual. The visitors from Fort Saskatchewan, although few in number (only Messrs. Leroy, Ferguson, Adamson and Forbes taking part in the matches) carried off more than their proportion of the prizes. J. Leroy, who, by the way, is an old Edmonton man, taking all the first prizes. The shooting of Leroy in these matches deserves special mention. Through the course of the several matches and shooting in all 85 times, besides the shooting of several ties in the ladies' match, he never missed the target once, and at 400 yards in the association match and at 200 yards in the merchants' match he came within one point of making the highest possible score. The only one who made a possible was G. Ferguson, also of Fort Saskatchewan, at the 400 yards range in the association match, M. McCauley coming within one point of a possible at 200 yards in the president's match. Our space will not permit us to further particularize, only to mention that among the younger members there are some who showed by their steady shooting in these matches that the old heads will have to look to their laurels if they wish to retain them in future matches. The ladies' own match was a new feature on this occasion and those who contested in the match proved that the ladies are not inferior to the sterner sex in handling the rifle, as the scores in that match prove that with a little practice they would be able to hold their own with the best. Indeed it would be dangerous for an enemy to attack a fort with a few such ladies as the ones, who took part in the match of Saturday, defending it. On Friday afternoon a match was made up between a team from Fort Saskatchewan and the local team, five on each side, which resulted in a victory by the visitors with a score of 207 to 189.

On Saturday evening after the matches were over, the home association invited the visitors to a supper at the Alberta hotel, and a very pleasant evening was spent with Dr. Braithwaite, president of the Edmonton rifle association, in the chair, and J. F. Forbes, captain of the Fort Saskatchewan team, in the vice-chair. After the usual loyal and patriotic toasts had been proposed and responded to, there were several volunteer toasts given, interspersed with songs and speeches. During the evening it was decided to make an effort to form a Territorial rifle association, and Mr. Forbes was appointed to write the secretaries of the various rifle associations in the Territories with that object in view. The evening's entertainment terminated at about 10 o'clock and the visitors left for home next morning. The following are the scores of the several matches:
